

Who you'll work with

You will be working with PwC's Strategy and Operations Consulting practice in Zagreb, covering markets across Southeast Europe.

Our team assists our clients in solving complex strategic and operational challenges across several industries including energy, utilities and mining, industrial manufacturing, financial services, retail & consumer, technology, media and telecommunications, etc. Blending strategic thinking with hands-on execution capability, our team of consultants and experts work to develop strategies that work for our clients.

What you'll do

- Work in a team of typically 3-5 consultants on identifying issues, developing, and often implementing potential solutions for our clients
- Structure complex problems and develop hypotheses to solve them
- Gather and analyze data, and synthesize complex information into clear and actionable findings (e.g. you'll conduct market research, build financial models, deep-dive into company performance, analyze competitors etc.)
- Communicate effectively and present regularly to the client representatives, including senior leaders
- You'll be often traveling to the client site
- Participate in business development and proposal preparation

What we expect from you

- Undergraduate or master's degree
- Up to 2 years of work experience in consulting or industry
- Strong academic and extracurricular background
- Ability to adapt to an intense work environment and work in challenging circumstances
- Ability to work collaboratively in a team and proactively drive independent tasks
- Familiarity with MS Excel and MS Powerpoint (knowledge of project management and data analytics tools is considered a plus)
- Ability to communicate complex ideas effectively in English and Croatian, both in speaking and in writing
- Affinity to work in management consulting long-term
- Open to regional travel, if needed

What we offer to you

- Unique opportunity to grow professionally
- Work on top strategy and operations projects in Southeast Europe for leading private and public sector companies alongside our experienced regional and international consultants
- Opportunities to acquire broader international experience
- An established coach/mentor system for personal and professional development
- Freedom to decide on your own passions and interests
